The morgue has just claimed John Morg, said to be the oldest man in the world.

Company G., of Earlington, was ordered to Bardwell, Ky., to be present at the trial of Willard Richardson, who shot and killed John Violet, a farmer at Milburn, Carlisle county.

Winifred Anker, a cook in an infants' hospital in New York, has confessed that eight children who recently died were poisoned by oxalic acid she put in their milk bottles to get even with the nurses who didn't like her. She is believed to be demented.

The Clark and Wilson forces compromised in Oklahoma. The delegates selected were instructed to divide Oklahoma's vote so long as Clark and Wilson are before the convention and with the withdrawal of either to center on the candidate remaining.

Sheriff Borum is said to be making the first real effort to stop the illegal sale of liquor in Nashville. A dispatch says "nine saloon proprietors" were arrested in one day and taken into court. Up to this time there has been no pretense of obeying the prohibition law passed three years ago.

If all the postage stamps issued by the United States government during the last fiscal year were collected and laid end to end they would form a chain over 18,000 miles long, stretching three-fourths around the world, or from New York to the Philippines and back. The number was 10,071,439,768, representing face value of $180,957,385.

W. J. Bryan in a speech at Denver definitely set at rest reports that he might make the race for the presidency. He said, in concluding his address: "I am satisfied that no one else can poll more votes than myself, but I am ready to enter upon a campaign in behalf of a true Democrat with even more vigor than that which I have ever fought in my own behalf."

Whether the government will construct a canal across Florida is now being considered by the river and harbors board at the war department. The report of the army engineers who made an investigation is said to be adverse to the project. It is contended that the shipping which would use the waterway would not be sufficient to justify its construction.

Rutger's students, who did the turkey trot and like dances at the junior promenade at New Brunswick, N. J., will be excluded from attendance at all future college dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence James, of Evansville, in celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary, announced that they had never had a quarrel. They are both natives of Kentucky.

Columbia has virtually repudiated the action of its ministers, General Ospina, by sending through American Minister Dubois, at Bogota, a cordial invitation to Secretary of State Knox to visit Columbia shores on his present trip to the republics on the Caribbean sea.

The Trials of a Traveler.

"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Youngs, E. Berkshire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion till I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequalled. Only 25 cents at all druggists.

Oldest Man Dead.

Columbia, Ky., Feb. 23.—Information of the death of John Morg, which occurred on Indian Creek, Clinton county, a few days ago, has just reached here. He was perhaps the oldest man in the world. He came to this country from Germany in 1812. His papers show he was a soldier in the War of 1812, as he drew a pension for this service for many years. His papers gives his age as 24 at the time he enlisted. Taking that as a cue, he was about 124 years old when he died. He became a citizen of Clinton county about fifty years ago.

Roasted Victim Alive.

An almost unbelievably cruel happening has come to light at Hiroshima, Japan. There a man and his wife have been arrested for willfully cremating a live man. The prisoners were in charge of a crematorium, and while at work a faint voice coming out of a coffin begged for fresh air. The couple took no notice, however, and proceeded to apply fire, roasting the man alive.

Worth Weight in Gold.

Abingdon, Va.—Mrs. Jennie McCall, of this place, says, "I had been troubled with female complaints, for over ten years. I could not walk or stand on my feet, and had been almost confined to the house, for a long time. I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk any where I want to go. Cardui is worth its weight in gold." This is a high estimate on a plain herb medicine, yet there are thousands of women who would gladly pay this price for a remedy to relieve their suffering. Cardui has helped others. Why not you? Try it. Your druggist sells it, in $1 bottles.

Indian Killed On Track.

"It completely cured me, in a short time, of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of Grip," writes J. R. Watts, Floydada, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

Flying Men Fall

victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people, with like results in loss of appetite, back ache, nervousness, headache, and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn., proved. "Six bottles of Electric Bitters" he writes, "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other stomach remedies I used." So they help everybody. Its folly to suffer when this great remedy will help you from the first dose. Try it. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

AMUSEMENTS

The Wm. Wamsher Amusement Co. having secured from Sanger & Jordan, the New York play brokers, the exclusive rights to present the play of "Under Arizona Skies" in the middle West, have eliminated the production to one company, with Miss Dorothy Russell and Fannie Meroney in the leading female roles and a carefully selected cast and production produced with all special scenery, not one of the house pieces being used except the borders. This attraction will be the offering at the Opera House, Friday, March 1. The prices by arrangements of the management have been made common sense.

EVIL GLARE OF BLACKBOARD

Dr. John Neely Rhoads Says It Should Be Deflected From Eyes of Children.

At a recent gathering of medical men Dr. John Neely Rhoads of Philadelphia said that children, and everyone else for that matter, should learn to avoid glare, no matter what its source. In order to prevent the glare that came from the reflection of light from the blackboard into the eyes of the children the base of the board should be pulled away from the wall so as to deflect the light upward. Children, he said, should never be required to copy script from the blackboard, because, in order for a child 40 feet away to see them, the letters would have to have lines a quarter of an inch thick. To be in proportion the letters would then have to be five or six inches high. Besides, such copying made a constant strain upon the accommodation.

The copybook evil he considered just a trifle less serious than the blackboard evil. There was a glare from the white page, and the writing of the child became less and less good as he wrote further and further away from the copy. The copies should be inserted in a carrier on a ruler that could be moved down the page in such a manner as to cover the last line of writing. Every child should also be taught to write and cipher without the use of his eyes. This would enable him to do a good part of his work without looking at it, and thus avoid a considerable part of the strain upon his sight.

MADE HER FAMOUS AS WIT

Distressing Mistake of the Absent-Minded Woman at the Reception. Established Reputation.

A woman who has been schooling herself to be less forgetful tried the rule of repetition as an aid to her ever-increasing absent-mindedness. Sometimes her method worked very well. Then again it did not. One afternoon recently she went to a reception. There may have been some interesting persons at that reception, but she found bores to the right of her, faddists to the left of her and common, every-day fools behind her and in front of her. She did her best to be amused and to amuse, but that reception was a horror, and when the heat, the crowd, the babble and the "music" became no longer bearable the absent-minded one got up to leave.

"Now I mustn't forget to make a proper adieu to the hostess, and tell her I have had a delightful time—delightful time—delightful time—she repeated it with conscientious persistence as she sought out the lady of the house.

"Goodby, dear Mrs. Puckle," she said with an engaging smile and warm handshake. "I have had such a perfectly HORRIBLE time!"

For one annihilating moment there was silence; then all those who were within earshot burst out into a delighted laugh—the merriest sort of a laugh. The hostess looked pleased and proud. And from that moment forth the absent-minded woman's reputation was established as a wit.

HEDGEHOGS ARE GOOD EATING.

Despite British food prejudices there are shops in London where snails and frogs can be bought, but apparently hedgehogs are never on sale here. Yet, properly treated, they form a delicious dish. According to Mr. Harwood Brierly, "The hedgehog may be stewed or spit-cooked, toasted or roasted, but the best way is to bake it in clay. As the clay is removed, it brings also the adhering spines and all the skin, leaving a luxurious little joint complete, with sufficient rich juice, and emitting an appetizing reminder of anything from hare to young pork. So treated, its sweet, white, tender flesh is nowise inferior to sucking pig or a spring chicken, the flavor being even more delicate than the savor. Personally, we think that the proper salad to eat with it is water cress, but sorrel sauce is just as good."—London Chronicle.

GODD OLD DAYS.

"You don't meet any more bunko steers or gold-brick men." "No," replied Farmer Cornstossel; "when a man is after your money now he doesn't take the trouble to be sociable and show you a good time. He jes' addresses a few circulars and expects you to send him the money by mail."
